Applicant's election with traverse of Group I, claims 11-20 in Paper No. 6 is acknowledged. Applicants' traversal is based on lack of serious burden in examining the inventions and the conclusion that unnecessary delay and duplicative examination would be avoided.

For purposes of the initial requirement a serious burden on the examiner may be prima facie shown if the examiner shows by appropriate explanation either separate classification, separate status in the art, or a different field of search as defined in MPEP 808.02. That prima facie showing may be rebutted by appropriate showings or evidence by the applicant. No such evidence was provided.

In addition the argument is not found persuasive because the methods are of a different scope and the references which would be applied to one method would not necessarily anticipate or render obvious the other method.

Moreover, as to the question of burden of search, classification of subject matter is merely one indication of the burdensome nature of the search involved. The literature search, particularly relevant in this art, is not co-extensive and is much more important in evaluating the burden of search. Burden in examining materially different groups having materially different issues also exists.

Clearly different searches and issues are involved with each group.

For these reasons, the restriction requirement is deemed proper and is adhered to. The restriction requirement is hereby made FINAL.. .

Claims 20-28 are withdrawn from consideration as directed to a non-elected invention.

Upon allowability, process claims which depend from or otherwise include all the limitations of the allowable product will be rejoined as appropriate.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 11-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 11 is confusing in the recitation "An immobilized enzyme in which (S)-hydroxynitrile lyase is immobilized...". It is unclear what is intended.

Claims 14-15 and 19-20 are confusing in the recitation "Poaceae (Gramineae)". It is unclear whether the parenthetical phrase is intended as a limitation or not.

Claims 13-14 and 19-20 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim must refer to preceding claims in the alternative. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claim not been further treated on the merits.

Claims 12 and 17 are confusing because the claims encompass an improper Markush grouping. Language such as, selected from the group consisting of A,B, and C should be used. The claims as drafted do not follow this form, in missing "the group consisting of". See MPEP 2173.05(h)(a). Claims 12 and 17 are inconsistent in the use of "a" and "the" with respect to the carriers. The use of "a" in claim 12 appears correct.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 11-13 and 16-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wehtje et al. (1988).

The claims are directed to an (S)-hydroxynitrile lyase which is immobilized on a carrier comprising a porous inorganic material.

Wehtje et al. teaches an (S)-hydroxynitrile lyase which is immobilized on a carrier comprising a porous inorganic material. See, e.g., Wehtje et al. (1988) page 420, col. 2. The reference teaches that the mean pore diameter is 200 angstroms, which is within the range claimed, i.e., 20 nm.

Claims 11, 12, and 16, 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by (1993) or Wehtje et al. (1990).

Each of the Wehtje et al. references teaches an (S)-hydroxynitrile lyase which is immobilized on a carrier comprising a porous inorganic material. See, e.g., Wehtje et al. (1993), Table IV, page 196; Wehtje et al. (1990), page 43.

Claims 11-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wehtje et al. (1988) taken with Wehtje et al. (1993), Wehtje et al. (1990), Effenberger et al. and Andruski et al.

As noted in the rejections under 35 U.S.C. § 102 supra, the Wehtje et al. references all teach an (S)-hydroxynitrile lyase which is immobilized on a carrier comprising a porous inorganic material. See, e.g., Wehtje et al. (1988) page 420, col. 2; page 421, Results and Discussion; Wehtje et al. (1993), Table IV, page 196; Wehtje et al. (1990), page 43. In addition the Wehtje et al. (1988) reference teaches that the mean pore diameter is 200 angstroms, which is within the range claimed, i.e., 20 nm.

The references differ from the claimed invention in that the source of the enzyme is not one of the disclosed groupings. However, Effenberger et al. and Andruski et al. adequately demonstrate that Hevea, Manihot and Sorghum are well known in the art to produce (S)-hydroxynitrile lyase (See, e.g., Effenberger et al., col. 4, lines 47 et seq. and Andruski et al., col. 1, line 32).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the claimed invention was made to modify the process of the Wehtje et al. (1988) reference, for example, by using different types of porous inorganic carriers for a variety of (S)-hydroxynitrile lyase enzymes from known origins, for the expected benefit of maximizing the production of commercially and pharmaceutically valuable optically active cyanohydrins.

Thus, the claimed invention as a whole was clearly prima facie obvious, especially in the absence of evidence to the contrary.

No claim is allowed.
